Where: 2216 Superior Avenue, Venice

Asking: $4,987,000

What: Venice designer Kim Gordon's latest project came to market last week, a spectacular 5-bed, 5-bath home that could be your year-round private resort villa.

Represented by Justin Alexander of Halton Pardee, it fully expresses Gordon's signature eclectic styling, evoking an early 20th Century Italian villa on the outside and enclosing loft like spaces within, all with 12-foot high ceilings. Outside, multiple gathering spaces around the house include a 2-level poolside pergola.

The welcoming entry (below) is big enough for a sofa.

Just beyond, light-filled seating and dining areas and an open kitchen.

What We Love: The kitchen has no overhead cabinets.

The best laundry room in Venice?

A simple but classic staircase extends from the main floor to the roof, plus there's a seating area and wet bar on the bedroom level.

The austere but luxurious master suite opens to the outdoors and includes a spa-sized marble bath and fitted dressing room.

Topping it all off, the obligatory Venice rooftop terrace with views to downtown LA.
